FANTASTIC FOOD & FRENZIED BIDDING COMBINE WITH NEW FLARE

York, PA, March 4, 2010: Unveiled in elegance and excitement, the York County Heritage Trust's Annual Art & Leisure Auction has become the organization's premiere event of the season. On April 16 beginning at 5:30 p.m. at the Historical Society Museum, 250 East Market Street, guests will enjoy a tasting of local culinary creations. Bidding on an array of items and packages, including the auction's showcase item, a kitchen makeover by Wolf, will begin at 7:00 p.m. Proceeds benefit the educational programming of the Trust.

Decorate your home or office with beautiful artwork created by local artists. Your eyes and ears will be delighted with a lovingly restored 1947 Sparton Tube Radio or tickets to a summer jazz festival. Enjoy the outdoors during a baseball game at Camden Yards or a relaxing vacation to the beach. All of this and much more will be featured throughout the evening.

Be sure to bring your appetite as you sample mouth-watering food from some of York County's best chefs, including Artistic Foods Catering, Blue Moon, Creative Caterers, Culinary Creations, GingerBabies, Prudhomme's Lost Cajun Kitchen, Raemi's Café & Catering, and Sam & Tony's Restaurant. Wash down your cuisines with complimentary wine and beer throughout the evening.

As a table sponsor, a table will be reserved for you and up to seven of your guests where you will also receive event recognition. Table sponsorships are $500. If a table sponsorship is not for you, invite several of your friends or a special someone to enjoy an exciting evening on the town with single tickets available for $35.

If you are interested in a sneak peek at all of the available packages, are itching to submit an early bid, or are unable to attend the event but still wish to be part of the excitement, visit the Historical Society Museum on April 15 from 4:00 – 6:00 p.m. for Preview Night.
